Yank Guards German Civilians

German civilians, rounded up by the Yanks advancing on the Rhine, sit and stand in front of a house under guard of a Ninth Army soldier. Most of the Germans found in the towns approaching the great river barrier were elderly or little children. Units of the Ninth Army today are fighting on the Rhine near Duesseldorf after overrunning the coal and synthetic oil town of Homberg. Rheinberg has also fallen into their hands during the great advance.

Yanks Tighten Cologne Grip

PARIS, March 6 (AP)—American First Army troops driving into Cologne today reached the Ringstrasse rimming the ancient heart of the city against surprisingly light opposition. Tanks and infantry rolled through the great industrial area in the north and western sections of Germany's fourth largest city and shelled the railroad yards, among the biggest in the Reich.

The fall of Cologne was expected hourly.

The German communique said south of Cologne Lt. Gen. Patton's "blacked out" Third Army had achieved a deep breach in German lines guarding the middle Rhine and Coblenz in the area northeast of Kyllburg in the Kyll region. At last reports, the Americans were 44 miles from Coblenz and pushing beyond the Kyll river, last great natural barrier, from two bridgeheads four and five miles wide and three deep.

Between these erupting fronts, the U. S. First Army pushed to within seven miles of Bonn.

To the north, the foe was feverishly strengthening fortifications east of the Rhine and mustering troops to man them.

Nazi demolition squads, trying desperately to guard the rich industrial Ruhr left the Rhine bridgeless along the twisting 70-mile stretch from Bonn to Wesel.

The Americans held the whole west bank of the Rhine from Cologne to Rheinberg, five miles south of Wesel, except for a tiny pocket in the river bend two miles north of Homberg, and a six-mile stretch from two to three miles deep form south of Neuss to Worringen. Even these were believed squeezed almost empty.

American pilots who flew over Cologne described it as a "dead city."

Farther north units of the First Canadian Army stabbed into the outskirts of Xanten, key strongpoint guarding Wesel.

The German bridgehead on the Rhine's west bank shrank to approximately 11 miles between Xanten and Rheinberg, which

Austen Lake Returns To the Front Lines

AUSTEN LAKE has rejoined the American armies in Europe and his first stories are expected shortly.

This is Lake's fourth trip to the battle zone since we entered the war and his previous reports, through THE AMERICAN, to the parents of New England's fighting men overseas, have given him the reputation of being New England's foremost war correspondent.

His colorful, factual stories will deal with what are expected to be the last phases of the battle of Germany and particularly of the parts being played in it by New England's own sons.

COLOGNE FRONT—More than one-fifth of Cologne is in U. S. hands as tanks plunged headlong into the great Rhine city and its fall appears near at hand. The Nazis have blown up the big Hohenzollern bridge and are shelling the city from the east bank of the Rhine. Only 1000 enemy troops are believed to be defending it against the onrushing Americans.

Where U. S. Units Fight Along Rhine

U. S. divisions in action today as reported by Associated Press:

3RD ARMORED: Drove on center of Cologne.

8TH INFANTRY: Pushed into Cologne from the south.

104th Infantry: Battered through Cologne from the west.

35th Infantry: Entered Rheinberg, south of Wesel.

Zhukov's Guns Blast at Stettin

LONDON, March 6 (AP)—Soviet troops have thrust within 13 miles of Stettin bay at the mouth of the Oder river, the German high command said today, as Russian guns pounded suburbs of the Stettin naval base.

The Germans declared Zhukov's spearheads had been stopped northeast of Gollnow, 13 miles from the bay, northwest of Stargard and southwest of Naugard, both seized yesterday.

The Germans also reported breaches by the Second White Russian Army pushing up the Polish corridor farther east.

Zhukov already had turned heavy guns, some recently taken from the Germans, on Stettin suburbs.

As Zhukov thus got set for a knockout blow against Stettin, Marshal Rokossovsky's Second White Russian Army to the northeast slashed deeper into the coastal strip of Pomerania between Danzig and Koeslin.

Yanks Capture Italian Village

ROME, March 6 (AP)—U. S Fifth Army forces have captured the hamlet of Bisopra, 13 miles southwest of Bologna, after scoring advances of 400 to 800 yards in a drive up both sides of the Pistoia-Bologna highway, Allied headquarters announced today.

London Dock Strike Grows More Serious

LONDON, March 6 (AP)—A strike of London dock workers which began six days ago assumed more serious proportions today as a port official announced that approximately 10,000 men now are idle.

Imitating Jap

MANILA March 6 (AP)—Sgt. Thomas Thompson, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., saw a Jap approach his foxhole in the 11th Airborne Division sector on Luzon Island. He aimed but his rifle failed.

PFC Donald Otten aimed, pulled the trigger, and his rifle failed.

PFC Eugene Wold's rifle failed, too.

The Jap hurled a grenade into foxhole where the three Americans crouched. The grenade also failed to explode.

85-Mile British Sweep Perils Jap Burma Lines

By Associated Press

A dashing 85-mile advance by British armored and airborne units endangered the entire Japanese position in Burma today. The maneuver slashed every communication line between Mandalay and Rangoon. Eight airdromes were seized intact. Great stores were destroyed or captured and 1600 Japs were killed.

Gen. MacArthur reported 90,000 Japs have been killed on Luzon and the remaining 60,000 have been cut into discontinued units.

On Iwo Island, Navy Secretary Forrestal disclosed 2050 Marines have been killed—one for every six Japs known to have been slain. He made no estimate of American wounded. The last complete U. S. casualty report on Iwo listed seven wounded for each Marine slain.

A Jap communique estimated American wounded at 20,000, size of the original Nipponese garrison.

For the second successive day Adm. Nimitz reported lines unchanged. The three Marine divisions broke up repeated Jap attempts to infiltrate through the lines. Trained dogs joined Marines in hunting enemy troops still hiding in caves behind the lines, where the Yanks killed them or sealed up their underground hideouts.

Nimitz's Tuesday communique was the first that failed to report a Marine attack on Japs, now squeezed on the 16th day of the battle into the narrow northern end of Iwo, their backs to steep cliffs and the ocean.

Forrestal credited the Japs with putting up "a thorough and skillful" defense and emphasized the "Japanese still have an army" of some 70 combat divisions.

Tokyo reported seven Superfortresses raided the capital and five other Jap areas of Honshu, Japan's main island, during the night. Jap reports of two over the southeastern tip of Honshu and a fighter-escorted B-29 raid on Amoy, China, indicated Superforts may again be operating from China bases.

Chungking announced Chinese columns have virtually surrounded the former U. S. airbase of Suichwan, midway between Hong Kong and Hankow.

Gen. MacArthur's report the equivalent of six of Yamashita's original 10 divisions on Luzon had been destroyed raised estimated Jap losses in the Philippines to 225,000 men.

4 Big Jap Plane Plants Knocked Out

By ROBERT GEIGER

ABOARD ADM. MITCHER'S FLAGSHIP, March 4 (delayed) (AP) — Reconnaissance flights confirmed reports the Ota aircraft assembly plant near Tokyo was "more than 90 per cent destroyed or damaged" in the carrier plane raids Feb. 16, 17 and 25, Adm. Mitscher said today.

The Koizuma assembly plant was damaged almost as seriously while the Tama, Musashino and Tachikawa engine plants were "heavily damaged."

The four plants produced or assembled a substantial amount of all Japanese engines and planes.

During their battle cruise in Jap waters, carrier pilots flew 5266 sorties and destroyed 728 planes while American losses totaled only 75.

Adm. Mitscher also announced eight enemy naval vessels, 21 coastal vessels, an ocean tug, six luggers and many small craft sunk.

One medium-sized Jap aircraft carrier was listed as probably sunk. Pilots who bombed it in Yokohama harbor said it turned over on its side.

Seventy-one small warships and four 6000-ton combat cargo ships were damaged, while airfields, weather and radio stations were badly mauled.

American pilots shot down 399 planes, destroyed 329 on the ground, and probably destroyed or damaged 350 more, a 5 to 1 ratio compared with ours.

Berchtesgaden Nazi Capital

LONDON, March 6 (INS)—The German government was evacuated from Berlin over the week-end to Berchtesgaden, the London Daily Mail correspondent in Stockholm reported today.

Yanks Seize Carloads Of German Rockets

RHEURDT, Germany (AP)—Doughboys of the U. S. Ninth Army seized large quantities of German military booty, including 17 carloads of rocket weapons, mostly of the new 300-pound frontline type.

RUSSIAN FRONT—Pressing their assault toward Stettin, great German Baltic seaport, Soviet troops have captured Stargard and Naugard, while other forces to the northeast smashed into Nazi pockets where 200,000 of the enemy are entrapped. The direct attack on Stettin appears imminent.

MOVED TO TEARS—The excitement caused by a visit of circus performers to the Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children at Oak Park, Ill., brought tears instead of laughter in the case of 3-year-old Donald Ungaro, although policeman-clown Jean Randon is doing his best to change the tears to smiles. U. S. Envoy Files Hulten Life Plea

LONDON, March 6 (AP)—A last-minute appeal for the life of Pvt. Karl Gustav Hulten reached the American Embassy today and was rushed immediately to British Home Secretary Herbert Morrison. Morrison was expected to announce late today or tomorrow whether the Cambridge, Mass., paratrooper who, with his English strip-tease girl friend, is under sentence to be hanged March 8 for the robbery murder of a London taxicab driver, would live or die. The girl is Elizabeth Jones, 18.

Morrison had been informed beforehand that an appeal was en route from a Massachusetts attorney for Hultens' wife and mother, and the secretary had promised to consider it.

Under Britsh law the home secretary must pass on all death sentences. Merely by initialing a set form he can either refuse to interfere with the decision of the court or reduce the sentence to life imprisonment or less. Life sentences in England average around 15 years.

Hulten's Mother, Wife Wait Decision

Although chances were fading today for Pvt. Karl G. Hulten, Cambridge paratrooper doomed to hang Thursday in England, neither his grief-stricken mother nor his wife planned to make personal appeals to the State Department or to Army authorities in Washington to intervene in his behalf.

Sen. Charles J. Innes, Back Bay, who has been acting as counsel for the mother, Mrs. Signe Hulten of St. Botolph st., Back Bay, and the wife, Mrs. Rita Hulten of Prince st., Cambridge, said the two women, near collapse, were resigned to awaiting word on an appeal for clemency that Ambassador John G. Winant was presenting to the British home secretary.

In addition to the State Department appeal, sent to Winant over the week-end by Army bomber, the ambassador had a mercy plea from Hulten's home state of Massachusetts, endorsed by U. S. Senators David I. Walsh and Leverett Saltonstall.

This plea was based on the fact that Hulten was not included in a recommendation for mercy which the jury made for Mrs. Elizabeth Jones, strip-tease dancer, when she was convicted with him and sentenced to hang for the murder of George Heath, London cab driver.

Only other solace for the mother and wife was a letter from the paratrooper, perhaps their last message from him.

In the letter, Hulten made no mention of his plight, but told of how he passes the hours in his prison cell. In none of his letters has he discussed his case, except to declare his innocence.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Hulten's burden was increased by illness of the couple's 2-year-old daughter, June, who was confined to bed by a severe cold. Refusing to abide by her physician's advice that she, too, should remain in bed to conserve her strength, Mrs. Hulten insisted upon taking care of the ill child.

NAZI DNB AGENCY SILENT

NEW YORK, March 6 (INS)—The Nazi DNB agency failed to make its scheduled transmissions this morning to the European and German domestic press, the FCC reported.

GREER GARSON

Now We Ask You!!

LONDON, March 6 (INS)—Glamorous Greer Garson, Hollywood star, hotly denies that she is knock-kneed or bow-legged. This was revealed in a cablegram to the Daily Mail published today.

Garson cabled: "Willy, Hollywood's self-appointed stockings expert, recently told Don Iddon (Daily Mail New York correspondent) that I was knock-kneed and required specially seamed stockings to disguise this defect.

"Then Willy told Earl Wilson, New York Post columnist, that I am bow-legged and have to wear padded stockings.

"The only picture in which I've ever shown my legs was 'Random Harvest,' when I danced in short kilts and ordinary long stockings. And those were my own legs, untouched by any artifices or disguise. There were no complaints from the paying customers."

Garson concludes with this offer to Earl Wilson and Don Iddon:

"Next time they are out here or I visit New York they can check the evidence for themselves."

3 Missing Boys Hunted in Fells

With only three cents, a jacknife and a few fishhooks in their pockets, three small Charlestown boys, missing more than 24 hours, were believed to be hiding in the rain-drenched Spot Pond reservation of the Fells today.

A schoolmate told police today the trio had been plotting a "camping expedition," with caves destined to be their hiding places and the waters of Spot Pond a vast reservoir of food (thus the fishhooks), until they could do a little "trapping."

The missing adventurers are Richard P. Hughes, 10; Raymond T. McCullum, 9, and his brother, Richard, 11, all of Pearl st., and all pupils of the St. Francis de Sales Parochial School, Charlestown.

They did not appear at school yesterday. All last night, Charlestown police and the boys' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hughes and Mr. and Mrs. George McCallum, searched the district of their homes. No trace of them was found.

This morning metropolitan district police took up the search in the Fells after nuns at the school questioned classmates of the boys and found one who had been in on the plans of the "campers."

The small informant, whose name was withheld, lest the venturesome trio consider him a traitor for revealing their plans for living in caves and angling for fish, gave authorities what they considered valuable information.

Cooking, it was learned, appeared to be no problem to the trio as discussion of the matter came up in their preliminary plans. They were confident if the Indians had been able to prepare a tasty fish without a gas stove they could too.

As for blankets, the matter was dismissed as a consideration for sissies only. This was to be an encounter between hardy souls and the wilderness itself, with the hardy souls asking no quarter and toting none of humdrum civilization's aid to living.

Metropolitan police, hearing of the details, thought they knew exactly where to look among the reservation's various nooks and corners. They were hard at it this morning.

Disguised Nazis

WITH U. S. FIRST ARMY IN COLOGNE, March 6 (INS)—Doughboys suspect many of the healthy young so-called civilians being pried out of cellars here are German soldiers who have thrown away their uniforms.

Lt. Fred Hadsel, interpreter, said:

"It is a sure bet that a high percentage of the men taken in this town are soldiers who have thrown away their uniforms and papers and joined the civilain exodus. It is going to mean a lot of double checking and a lot of trouble."

Stalin Revives Slave System

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Dean of American Foreign Correspondents
Written Expressly for the Hearst Newspapers

MADRID, March 6—Nothing is giving graver concern as to the future of Europe and the world than newspaper dispatches that at Yalta there was agreement in principle with Stalin that Soviet Russia shall have the right to deport from Germany millions of men, ex-soldiers and civilians, and take them to the interior of Russia and Siberia for unforeseeable lengths of time.

That America and England, the great champions of freedom and the inalienable rights of man, should be complacent, defend and even advocate a measure that would mean, in the 20th century, that the world is slipping back more than a hundred years and reverting to conditions of slavery is simply not understood.

Any form of impressing labor, forcibly compelling men and women to leave their own country and go where they do not want to, receiving little or no pay, working under military guards and living in concentration camps is slavery.

It is recalled that slavery was introduced into the American colonies in 1619. By 1777, more than 9,000,000 Negroes had been caught in Africa and taken to North and South America and elsewhere.

In 1863, our martyred President, Abraham Lincoln, issued a proclamation abolishing slavery in the United States.

That 82 years later the Congress of the United States and the American people will sanction the principle or practice of slavery in Europe, whatever be its form or class, is simply not believed.

Reports from Moscow, passed by the Soviet censor, that Stalin demands not less than 10,000,000 forced levies of labor from defeated nations, taken together with dispatches from Washington, New York and London indicating that neither President Roosevelt nor Prime Minister Churchill opposed it at Yalta, are causing more than mere wonderment.

It is pointed out that Soviet Russia is not a signatory to the Geneva Convention and that during the entire war she has not once permitted representatives of the International Red Cross to visit war prisoners' camps in Russia.

The belief is expressed that at San Francisco Russia will endeavor to gain the sanction of the security conference, which meets April 25, for such enslavement and deportations from Germany.

That, it is declared, would reestablish the ancient rights of the conqueror, and that a defeated nation's men, women and children can in practice, be made slaves.

The Czarist governments sent revolutionaries and those opposed to their form of autocracy to Siberia. The Bolshevik Soviet regime adopted the same system and practice for those opposed to them.

Some London papers are now beginning to print reports of wholesale deportations from Romania, Poland and Bulgaria.

House Ready to Yield On Nurse-Draft Bill

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP)—Reluctant to draft women for any purpose, the House resigned itself today to ordering the induction of women as Army and Navy nurses. Whether it passes and sends to the Senate by nightfall a nurse-draft bill depends on how much fight develops.

As approved by committee, the legislation applies only to unmarried qualified nurses between 20 and 44.

Material Lack May Cancel Labor Draft

NEW BEDFORD, March 6—Mayor Arthur N. Harriman expressed hope today that his latest appeals to government officials would result in revocation of the WMC directive seeking to force textile workers into jobs at tire plants.

He said he based his hope chiefly on a change in the raw materials situation here affecting the production of tire fabric.

The mayor notified Washington authorities that there is such a decided lack of carbon black, one of the principal ingredients used in tire manufacture, that tire fabric plants are now considering reducing the work week in their plants by a full day.

Mayor Harriman sent his appeals to WPB Chairman Krug, WMC Director McNutt, Undersecretary of War Patterson, and the Massachusetts delegation in Congress shortly after Judge Charles E. Wyzanski, Jr., ruled in Boston that the federal court has no jurisdiction to invalidate the WMC forced labor directive.

Encouraged by its court victory, the WMC here went ahead with its plans to call 90 more workers out of the textile mills and offer them jobs in the Fisk and Firestone tire plans on a work-or-loaf basis.

Seraphim P. Jason, president of the New Bedford Central Labor Union, and official of the Teamsters' Local, AFL, said there appeared little possibility now of halting a strike of drivers and lumpers at the Fisk and Firestone plants March 27 when a 30-day cooling off period expires.

Cahill Wins Braintree Poll

Former Lt. Gov. Horace T. Cahill, defeated for governor in last year's state election, was back in politics today in the place where he started, having been elected moderator in Braintree without opposition in the town's annual election.

Elections and town meetings in more than 70 towns in Massachusetts attracted a minimum of voters to the polls, the wartime apathy being evident throughout the state.

In Belmont, the lightest vote within the memory of residents was recorded, only 1257 out of a registration of 15,337 casting their ballots. Unopposed for reelection as selectman was Lt. Col. J. Watson Flett, who is on the European battlefront. He received 964 votes.

Dedham, with the lightest vote in years, re-elected Francis M. Walley to the board of assessors over Arthur J. Mackay, 1361 to 959. Vote cast was 2365 out of 10,000.

In Winchester's only contest, Neil H. Borden, with 1483 votes, and Mrs. Christine E. Greene, with 1374, were re-elected to the school committee.

Weymouth voted a 15 per cent temporary increase to all town employes, plus $100 to highway department workers. Board of health salaries were abolished and a position of health agent at $2500 was created.

Air Blows Exhaust Nazi Oil Reserves

LONDON, March 6 (AP)—Air Secretary Sir Archibald Sinclair today said "Allied forces have reduced German oil production to such an extent that reserves are almost certainly exhausted."

The percentage loss of U. S. and RAF bombers dispatched has been reduced by approximately 400 per cent since 1942, he told the House of Commons.

Rebuilding Manila To Take 15 Years

MANILA, March 6 (AP)—Engineers estimate it will be more than 15 years before Manila can hope to be rebuilt.

Himmler Digs In Big Underground

MOSCOW, March 6 (AP)—Col. Gen. Vasily Ulrich, president of the supreme military tribunal, warned the Red Army today Heinrich Himmler was organizing vast underground resistance forces in Germany and called for redoubled vigilance against Nazi spies and terrorists.

"Inside Germany there is no difference between our front and rear posts," he declared in Red Star. "Every post is a battle post and subject to enemy attack.

"Thousands of Germans have been given false documents. Supplies of arms are being hidden as well as printing presses and radio communications. Himmler is seeking to continue the Nazi party underground."

Red Point Racket Now Seen as Nationwide Plot

Shattering the theory that Boston was the testing ground for the counterfeiting red ration coupon racket, evidence of State-wide ramifications spurred investigators today, following the seventh arrest in what now is believed to be a nation-wide plot.

With six men already arrested in Boston, the seventh arrest was made in Bridgeport, Ct., where Antonio Vassarrella of that city was seized with 60,000 red stamps in his possession of the same variety as those peddled in Boston, OPA officials announced.

This development came shortly after Louis "Poco" Bennett, 37, of Commonwealth ave., Brighton, publisher of a race track tip sheet, surrendered at the federal building.

At the same time it was disclosed that from 150 to 200 meat dealers are involved in Boston and the suburbs in the purchase of counterfeit red points.

Bennett was arraigned before U. S. Commr. Martin T. Hall and ordered held in $1500 for a hearing March 24. Five others who were arraigned here last Saturday on similar charges of being ringleaders of the conspiracy, will be heard on the same date.

In asking for $1500 bail on Bennett, Asst. U. S. Atty. Harold G. Jackson charged that 4,500,000 counterfeit red ration points had been sold, and that the defendant was involved to the extent of from 50 to 100 "market" points.

Jackson also told of the large number of meat dealers in Greater Boston who he said had purchased counterfeit red points, and said an investigation was being made to determine if they were part of a conspiracy. He said that one market alone had turned in 20,000 ration points, the majority of which were counterfeit.

The OPA disclosed that market men in Springfield and Lawrence had purchased counterfeit points.

Merrimack Flood Peril Seen Remote

Despite the rain predicted for tonight and tomorrow there is no immediate danger of floods in the Merrimack river area, G. Harold Noyes, U. S. Weather Bureau meteorologist, said today.

"The upper Merrimack valley has so much snow that it will absorb the rain before it runs off," Noyes said. "There is a possibility of local floods in small streams due to ice jams, but nothing of any serious nature."

Noyes said most of the snow in lower Connecticut river valley was gone. Only a trace of snow was reported in eastern Massachusetts and Maine, he said.

Official observers at Hartford reported that the Connecticut river was "about normal" for this season and no immediate danger of floods was seen.

Between three-quarters to 1½ inches of rain were expected in New England tonight and Wednesday.

Caution was advised by the U. S. geological survey authorities.

"The danger of damaging floods is greatly increased by the heavy snow cover," they declared. "Little damage may be expected from melting snow alone, but if heavy rains occur simultaneously with high temperatures, above normal spring floods may be expected."

Ohio, Mississippi Near Disaster Level

CINCINNATI, March 6 (AP)—Waters of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers—plus hundreds of rain-swollen tributaries—roiled toward the disaster stage today, from Pittsburgh to Memphis, forcing thousands from their homes and menacing war-busy arsenal plants along the rivers.

The Ohio rose beyond 64 feet here, and river men saw a possible 70-foot stage coming. In 1937 the river hit 79.99 feet, causing an estimated $400,000,000 property loss.

Louisville prepared for a 45-foot stage, 17 feet above flood level, and in Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Indiana, lowland dwellers began an exodus.

Spring thaws and heavy rains sent the Mississippi out of its banks at a number of points and evacuation was begun at many places.

21 Flee Cambridge, Salem, Malden Fires

Damage estimated at $25,000 was caused today in a downtown Salem business block by a general alarm fire, which gave firemen a four-hour battle after it had been discovered by Deputy Chief Henry F. Grady when he investigated smoke filling the Town House sq. district.

Two other early morning blazes in Malden and Cambridge forced 21 persons to flee from their homes and caused several thousand dollars in damage.

The Salem blaze was blamed by Fire Chief Arthur L. Flynn on a defective burner in the basement of the two-story Lane drugstore building. Firemen were forced to don gas masks. A section of the main floor collapsed, but no one was hurt.

Nine persons were driven out in a fire in a duplex tenement house on Chauncey st., Cambridge. None was injured. Forced to flee were Miss Delilah Fowler, 55, her cousin, Rev. Cuthbert Fowler, 75, an Episcopal minister, and a boarder, Miss Eleanor Laffin, 52.

From the second apartment in the building, those who fled to safety were Miss Florence DuVernet, 64; her sister, Muriel, 55, and four boarders, John Jasberg, 25; Robert Hammett, 24; Bruce Wholey, 25, and Greer Taylor, 27.

Damage of $5000 was estimated in a fire in a three-family house in Desmond rd., Malden, which forced three families to flee to safety.

Driven out were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Poole and their two children; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Madden and one child, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Maher and their three children.

The blaze was blamed on a defective chimney.

Swindler Slips Trap Set With Franklin GI Families

FRANKLIN, March 6—A smooth-talking swindler, who has been attempting to fleece parents and other relatives of servicemen with the promise he could obtain Army or Navy discharges for $1000, was balked today when police learned of his activities.

The swindler, however, eluded a trap when he failed to make a promised call to pick up $500 from an intended victim.

Police Chief Jiseph W. Cataldo described him as about 35 years old, five feet eight inches tall, with medium complexion. He said the man drove a black sedan but he had no report on the license number.

Cataldo said the man would pick out a house displaying a service flag in the window and ascertain the identity of the serviceman. Then he would visit the parents or relatives.

Using information gained from friends, he would convince relatives he knew the serviceman and then offer to obtain his discharge for $1000.

Cataldo said the swindler might have collected a considerable sum but for the fact two persons he approached became suspicious and notified police.

Red Cross Workers Hear First Report

With Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, Episcopal Bishop of Massachusetts, scheduled as principal speaker, volunteer workers in the Greater Boston 1945 Red Cross War Fund drive gathered at the Boston City Club this noon for the first report luncheon of the campaign to raise $4,192,600.

Today's luncheon meeting followed an exhortation by Gov. Tobin to state employes to "live up to your obligations as good Americans." He expressed confidence they would oversubscribe their quota of $18,000 in the drive.

The Governor told almost 900 Red Cross volunteers in Gardner Auditorium in the State House that "all we are asked to contribute is money while thousands of our boys are giving their all."

Prior to their tabulation at today's noon gathering, scattered reports from the 22 Red Cross chapters allied in the campaign gave indication to officials that the 26-day drive was off to an encouraging start.

General Chairman Phillips Ketchum said he felt sure that residents of Greater Boston would raise their share of the $200,000-000 needed nationally to support Red Cross activities for a year.

"K" STANDS
FOR KINGSDALE

—and in this case he's just about King of them all—for our Sammy K is the man that's made the $11 suit famous. He doesn't claim any relationship to SAM of song fame "Sam, You Made The Pants Too Long"—but be that as it may—our Sammy K is the unchallengeable clothing expert who knows his coats and suits and then some. We don't know where he majored in Warp and Woof, but come Thursday, it will be twenty-three years that Sammy K has been outfitting males, practically the country over, at $11. When you sell nearly two million dollars' worth of men's good suits and coats at $11, it's sort of a phenomenon, we'd say, for despite higher cost of living—wars, depressions, hurricanes or what have you when the Powers-That-Be tell Sammy to get busy—out he goes and digs up odd lots, surplus stocks of retail stores and discontinued lines. Sammy dishes out as many as 4600 in a single day—dealers have been known to buy and sell them—one man comes from Colorado regularly—and believe it or not, if we could mention the names of some of the men who proudly outfit themselves as well as their sons in school you'd be amazed. It's fun and a bully good lot of satisfaction knowing you have legions of customers depending on you to be outfitted at $11. It's one of the grandest examples of the confidence customers place in this unique bargain store. See for yourself Thursday, it's our 45th semi-annual event.

Navy Triples Its Paper Salvage

As the waste paper salvage drive continued today in a score of Greater Boston communities, records of all Navy shore stations disclosed that during 1944, the Navy had turned back into the war effort 17,940 tons of the vital material.

The Navy's efforts practically tripled the amount of its scrap paper salvage during the year, under direction of salvage officers at every navy yard or other service installation.

The salvage program was organized by the Navy Material Redistribution and Disposal Administration. Confidence was expressed that the 1945 drive will show even greater results.

GI Asks Life Term For Wife Stealers

PARIS, March 6 (INS)—Life imprisonment for any person found guilty of stealing the love of a soldier's wife was demanded in an anonymous letter from an enlisted man, printed in Stars & Stripes. The letter stated:

"I write this letter on behalf of hundreds of officers and men of the armed forces faced with the same problem—a broken home.

"Many of us overseas have received approximately the same letter from our wives: 'I think it best we get a divorce; our marriage was all a mistake; we've nothing left on which to build future happiness.'

"Certain factors are usually present in each case. The wife, stranded physically and emotionally, becomes hungry for affection and eventually the prey for some wolf who is not content with being spared the miseries of fighting and, totally without conscience or scruple, steals the most cherished possession any soldier could ever own . . .

"Strange as it may seem, it is often a woman's strong moral sense that is a contributing factor in the disruption of marriage. Once faced with the realization that she is capable of desiring a man other than her husband, she becomes so plagued by her own conscience that in order to pacify it she enters a series of false rationalizations to convince herself that she is not really 'bad.' She ends up feeling herself a martyr and unbearably shackled to wedlock.

"Of course the guy who has taken advantage of her is ready to agree with these rationalizations, as they help his case along . . . It should be made a criminal offense, punishable by life imprisonment, for any man found guilty of having an affair with the wife of a soldier overseas."

The letter was signed: "It Happened to Me."

Tangled Power Line Ties Subway Traffic

A tangled power line outside Kenmore station was blamed by Elevated officials today for a subway tieup that delayed thousands of commuters on the Lake st.-Commonwealth, Reservoir-Beacon and Brighton-Newton-Watertown lines. More than 200 passengers were stranded for more than an hour.

The line of stalled cars extended from the subway entrance along Commonwealth ave. to the Cottage Farm Bridge. Hundreds of passengers jammed all stations from Kenmore to Park st. A repair crew was dispatched immediately, but the job of untangling the wire was complicated by the low roof of the tunnel.

13,000 Idle In Detroit Strikes

DETROIT, March 6 (AP)—Approximately 13,000 Detroit area war plant workers remained idle today as workers in six Briggs Manufacturing Co. plants refused to end their strike and employes in five factories of Gar Wood Industries, Inc., left their jobs.

The Briggs strike, which followed the discharge of a group of workers whom the company accused of leading earlier strikes, entered its fifth day. The Gar Wood stoppage, involving 2000 employes, followed a change in shift hours from six eight-hour days weekly to five 10-hour days.

It's a Long Trek To Camp Standish

Camp Myles Standish, Taunton, may be well known, but it would amaze you to know how many citizens give wrong directions how to get there, Pvts. William York and Anthony Woodin, Army truck drivers, informed the First Service Command today.

The two, each driving a truck, left the Port of Embarkation at 7:30 last night. They arrived at Camp Myles Standish at 4 o'clock this morning, after eight and one-half hours of receiving wrong steers.

Meanwhile the Army had been so worried over Pvts. York and Woodin that it enlisted the aid of the FBI and state police.

Army spokesmen said today they had more sympathy than censure for the peregrinating privates.

France Set to Lead Little Nation Fight

By JOHN A. PARRIS, JR.

LONDON, March 6 (AP)—Diplomats expressed the belief today France was preparing to take the lead at the San Francisco World Security Conference on behalf of greater power for the smaller nations in the projected international setup.

France made it clear in declining an invitation to become a conference sponsor she would propose amendments to the Dumbarton Oaks blueprint for world peace regarding alliances and voting procedure agreed upon by the Big Three at Yalta.

The same position, in even more outspoken form, was taken today by the Royal Netherlands government. A spokesman said the feeling in Dutch official circles was the small nations would have considerable reluctance "to sign a pact under which any nation, however great, could have a position making it legally a judge in its own cause."

The spokesman said the big nations in prewar years "repeatedly attempted to buy peace by sacrificing the security and vital rights of some weaker power."

"The Dutch," he said, "feel if the great powers alone are to have the right b ytheir veto to declare coercive action against themselves unlawful under the plan, the least the smaller powers may ask is that they should receive some form of compensation by a better definition of their rights.

"For the smaller powers the accent in the plan is on security rather than peace," he added.

Other nations, including Belgium, are known to hold similar views and France may seek to lead a western European bloc.

Recently De Gaulle has held lengthy conferences with Belgian Foreign Minister Paul Henri Spaak and is understood to be in touch with officials of the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Rhine

was penetrated by the U. S. Ninth Army.

Nazi parachute troopers fell back under sledgehammer blows by the Ninth Army, which was striving to wipe out remnants west of the Rhine.

British vanguards pushing through Bonningharut forest eight miles from Wesel were meeting bitter resistance by suicide squads. RAF pilots said two bridges at Wesel were damaged seriously yesterday by 347,000 pounds of bombs. One span of a railway bridge was destroyed and a road bridge was blocked.

A Ninth Army armored division which seized Orsoy, south of Rheinberg in a three and a half-mile thrust, and wiped out two fixed ferry routes across the lower Rhine.

The Germans blew their last Duisburg bridges yesterday and aerial reconnaissance showed the great Hohenzollern bridge at Cologne gaping and unusuable.

Patton's troops, repulsing seven counterattacks in 24 hours, captured three towns on the west bank of the Kyll and madee new crossings. Lissingen, one town that fell, is 44 miles from Coblenz.

Patton's infantry and armor were holding a 30-mile stretch along the Kyll from the Moselle river east of Trier to a point nine miles east of Pruem.

The American Seventh Army finally cleared the important railroad and industrial French city of Forbach in a steady tightening of a siege ring upon Saarbruecken.

The enemy continued his flight across the Rhine by small boats and ferries under cover of night.

Free Dairy Course for JVA Boys

Junior Victory Army members, without farm experience but with a desire to help dairy farmers in food production efforts have the opportunity to serve again by enrolling now for a special one-week training course at Massachusetts State College.

The weekly quota will be 18 boys for this dairy farm training program under supervision of Rollin H. Barrett of the department of farm management. The first week starts April 2 and the last June 4.

In 1944 there were 123 boys who completed a similar course. It is hoped, says Lawrence V. Loy, director of the Victory Farm Volunteers, that the total this year will be nearer 150.

To be eligible, says Loy, a boy should be 14 years of age or older, weigh at least 125 pounds, and have normal strength.

While at the college the boys live in a dormitory, under supervision of a matron. There are no fees for the course; room, board, and transportation to and from the college are paid.

If a boy is interested in enrolling he should take these steps: 1—Secure permission from his parents; 2—Arrange with school principal for leave from school duties and 3—Enroll with the farm and labor supervisor at the county extension service office.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and full address to Junior Victory Army, P. O. Box 228, Boston Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin well wrapped in your letter.

Read the next JVA story in Wednesday's Daily Record.

BOSTON

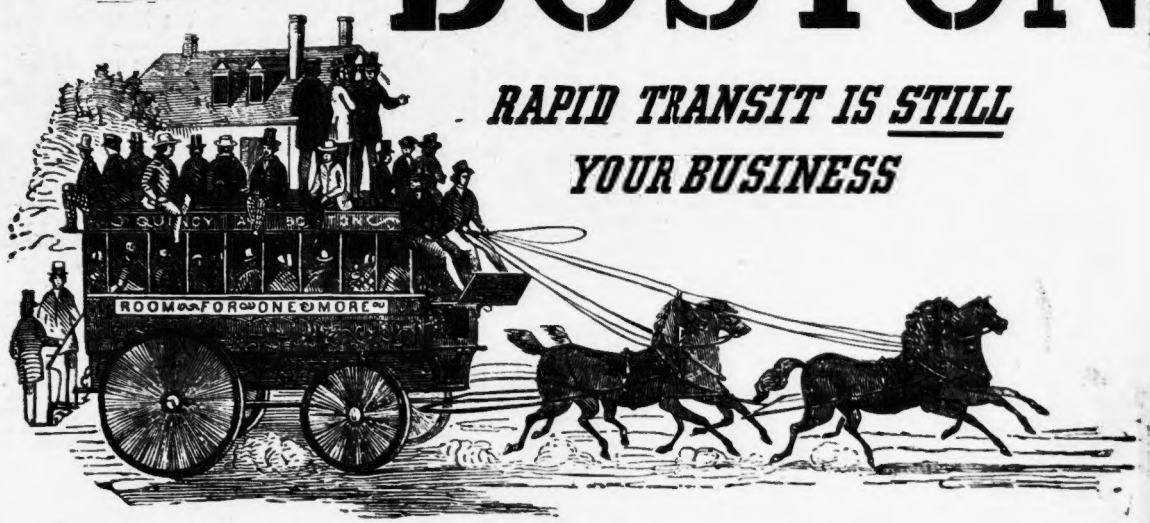
RAPID TRANSIT IS STILL YOUR BUSINESS



BEING one of America's oldest cities, Boston's industrial, shopping and trading areas just grew up, like "Topsy."

Commerce expanded and the waterfront was extended. Population increased and the Back Bay was filled in. People who worked in Boston offices and industries had to move farther and farther out for more spacious living.

Local public transportation was called upon to keep pace with this trend. At first, horsedrawn carriages and horse-cars were able to meet the increased demand. Later, electric trolleys were introduced and steam railroads carried commuters back and forth to their homes in nearby communities. Finally Boston outgrew its surface lines and developed elevated and subway systems supplemented by feeder buses.

Today, Boston's various transportation facilities are straining under the weight of millions of new daily riders. Many of these riders have not used public carriers for years. They are saving money—and saving themselves from the nervous strain of driving in congested city traffic. Will they continue to use these facilities after the war . . . or will they again contribute to the automobile traffic congestion that was already acute before the war?

* * * *

Boston's future is bright.

But a great Boston depends upon the holding of present industry and attracting new industry. Decisions may hinge on the ability of the city's transport to move workers between their homes and places of employment.

Already many of Boston's forward-looking men and women—business people, professional people and those engaged in civil affairs—are alive to this vital problem.

They realize that a city's economic health depends upon its arteries of transportation. They are planning and working today for a unified system in keeping with the greater city of tomorrow that Boston should—and can—be.

Give them your support . . . Boston's problems affect the pocketbooks of every village and town, every man, woman and child within BOSTON'S sphere and influence.

Government Waste Of Paper Assailed

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, March 6—Glaring wastage of paper by federal bureaus, as exemplified by a new 265-page book on fertility of American women, drew blistering criticism at initial hearings of the Boren Committee of the House, investigating paper shortages.

"Asinine but typical," Rep. Clarence J. Brown (R.) of Ohio termed the publication issued by the census bureau and purporting to give comparisons of women's fertility in 1940 and 1910.

"It is outrageous that the government of the United States should be wasting scarce paper and the people's money during wartime on a thing like that."

The congressman added that the cost of issuing the book and gathering the material for it had been estimated at $2,000,000.

"And what do we have?" he asked. "It tells us that fertility among women moving from cities to rural areas increases while that of women moving from the rural areas to cities declines."

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—My son who is my only support is in the Army. He is married and has a child. At present I am in the hospital. Am I entitled to any financial aid? C. J., Danvers.

A—If your son is willing, you may apply for family allowance. The fact of your dependency would be established by certificate, and if the application is approved, the soldier would contribute $5 in addition to the $22 he gives for his wife and child. If you are dependent for chief support, you would receive $30; if dependent for substantial support, $37. This would not reduce the amount payable to his wife and child. It is suggested you contact your local Red Cross Chapter for the necessary forms.

Q—Why is it when a boy is killed overseas in the Army, his personal belongings are not sent home to his folks? E. A. H., Claremont, N. H.

A—The personal effects of a soldier whose death occurs while overseas are forwarded to the Effects Quartermaster, Kansas City, Mo. From there, the personal effects are sent to the nearest of kin.

Q—What are the duties of the veterans' employment representative? G. M. S., Boston.

A—He supervises the employment interests of veterans registered in local offices of the United States Employment Service in his state.

Q—May the wife of a veteran be buried in a national cemetery? M. K., Quincy.

A—Yes; burial in a national cemetery may be arranged for the wife or widow, and, under certain circumstances, for minor children or unmarried adult daughters of an honorably discharged veteran.

Q—When a retired Marine is allowed to purchase at an Army commissary, is there a limit put on the amount of his purchases? J. K., Taunton.

A—No, a retired Marine's purchases are unlimited.

Q—Can a woman who is at fault contest a divorce of a soldier? B. J. H., Bennington, Vt.

A—Suggest you contact your local Legal Aid Office for the solution to your problem.

Q—Will you please tell me how a warrant officer is addressed by other men in his company? M. T. P., Newton.

A—He is addressed as "Mister" by other persons in his company.

Address all inquiries to Veterans' Friend, Boston Record-American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

CLOSE TO US

NO GOVERNMENTAL activity comes closer to the everyday lives of ALL the American people than the Post Office.

Next to the law courts, it is the oldest public service in the U. S. A., the first Post Office having been established here in 1691.

Because, then, of its vital importance and its longevity as an American institution one would naturally expect that the employes of the Postal service would be the best treated by the Government—better than the employes of any other department.

Not so. They have been treated very shabbily.

Their helplessness is one more proof of the arrogance and tyranny of bureaucratic officialdom.

There has just been introduced into the House of Representatives by Representative Burch, of Virginia, chairman of the House Post Office Committee, an up-grading bill that provides for an IMMEDIATE increase of $400 a year and overtime based on a forty-hour week.

To illustrate the dilly-dallying method of Congress in regard to this simple act of justice in regard to our most faithful and hardest-worked public servants there are TWENTY-SIX other bills concerning postal salaries in the pigeonholes of this committee.

CONGRESSMEN can find plenty of time to agitate for a pay increase for themselves, but for those who have charge of our mail—NOT A CENT.

To show just what our Postal employes are "up against," Representative Burch says that—

"More than 90 per cent of all Postal employes have reached in five years the limit of their earning capacity under the existing laws. From then on no increase can be had unless one is promoted to the position of supervisor, assistant postmaster and so forth. A flat increase will not remedy this condition."

He therefore opposed, he said, "a condition under which one entering the service reaches the limit of his possibilities for an increase in earnings in three or five years."

IN PRIVATE ENTERPRISES the opportunities for promotion and for increased earnings are practically illimitable.

But a Postal worker is up against a stone wall in a few years.

This is something to be pondered by all those who are gulled by the Wallaces, Browders and Wagners into changing our form of government into a vast Socialistic bureaucratic prison.

Government employes under the ant-heap systems of Russia and Germany have no redress for their grievances.

They may even be accused of "treason" if they attempt to leave their jobs.

That is the essence of Socialistic, Communistic and Fascist slavery.

It is a touch of this that our Postal workers have been feeling for many decades.

To obtain a decent wage they must depend on some one OUTSIDE of their department.

Even when they go to Congress hat in hand they are given the by-pass and the run-around by the squandermaniacs.

But in Representative Burch they seem to have a real friend.

His bill should pass NOW.

The blackbirds sing in every tree,
The hearts of these are glad
But my poor heart is sad
Since my true love is absent from me.
The rose upon the briar
By the water running clear
Gives joy to the linnet and the bee.
Their little hearts are blest
But mine is not at rest
While my true love is absent from me. —BROOKS.

ONE OF MY POSTWAR plans is to get a pet kangaroo. Or perhaps I will aequire an amiable and thoroughly domesticated duck. Or a trained seal. This will not be for my own benefit but for subscribers who complain I talk too much about my dog. Perhaps I should get all three of the animals aforementioned. Then when people complain of my talking too much about my dog or kangaroo I could switch to some items about my trained seal or duck.

ASIDES: Nobody has asked me to name the song sung on the air the most times in the history of radio. But if they do I am prepared to answer. I think it is "Sweet Mystery of Life" . . . Giant fan for 40 years says if I can ask him any question about the New York National League team he can't answer he will send me a Havana cigar. I have asked him to tell me in what year the Giants won 29 games in one month . . . A resident of Garden City, L. Considering that most establishments charge the same price for an ounce or less, this seems like a bargain.

However, Winifred Hudnut, the second Mrs. Valentino, wrote one titled "Rudy and I" . . . Vincent Lopez. Not the bandmaster, but the wrestler. When celebrities have the same name they should toss up for it to avoid confusion. At one time there were three sports celebrities named Jack Doyle. One was the famous billiard parlor owner, the other a former major league ball player and the third was that singing boxer from England.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: "Isn't it a fact those who graduate at the top of their class are rarely very successful in after life?" asks a Chicagoan. Have no way of checking that. All I know is General Douglas MacArthur graduated at the head of his class at West Point and he is doing all right . . . . Transportation expert says: "The bus bottleneck is caused by the persons who refuse to remove to the rear when requested." That is partly true. What causes the most congestion is the way the average bus is constructed. It would seem the men who designed these vehicles never figured some people were going to have to stand while riding.

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q—A man I know claims men are less likely to forget their first love than women are. He says men are more sentimental that way. What has your Mules & Men Dept. to say about this? A—The man is absolutely right. It was a man who wrote the song titled, "That Old First Love of Mine" and it was another, C. S. Calvery who wrote:

O, my earliest love, still unforgotten
With your downcast eyes of dreamy blue,
Never could I seem to cotton
To another as I did to you.

QUARTETTE: What present day singers of popular songs would make the best male quartette? That's what a Chicagoan asks. He has me stopped. That is, for the time being. I will have to think this over. I have selected Bing Crosby for the baritone. I will soon decide on two of the others. What worries me is who am I going to select to sing bass?

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

IN THOSE DAYS in London, around 1916, we had in our office a precise and aristocratic little fellow named Louis Moore, an American so long from home that he thought in pounds, shillings and pence and swore in English. He ran a funny little shoestring news service for English papers outside London called "The Provincials" and could do more tricks with 20 words of telescoped low-rate pig-latin than a monkey can on 40 yards of grape vine.

Westbrook Pegler

Reuter's was the standard service for the British press, but Louie's clients apparently thought he was something very special and unique and he seemed prosperous. Mr. Moore was very deaf.

He had a roll-top desk in a corner and Hal O'Flaherty and I, fresh cubs from Chicago, used to marvel at English journalism as Louie sat there night after night, dictating profoundly to his typist on the basis of his daily dispatch from New York.

According to the English style he frequently started a dispatch with "I learn—" or "I am able to state—." The perpendicular pronoun was a prerogative enjoyed by only a few of our journalists, then, and those few war correspondents in France and the Balkans. Of course, it was never used on anonymous copy.

It seemed to us silly that a dispatch attributed, as Louie's were, to "our special commissioner" or "our New York correspondent," but without a by-line, should speak in the first person but that was their way.

★ ★ ★

AFTER HE HAD DONE dictating, a day's work which seldom took him more than an hour, Louie and his typist would sort out the flimsy copies into batches, one for each of his clients. From that little cablegram he would spin out as many as half a dozen of his special dispatches and his method was then to send them down to the censor in Whitehall by messenger after which they went to the telegraph office.

When all had been prepared and the copy was in the envelopes, Mr. Moore would tap on the wall beside him and then, but not until then, there would enter our presence a creature out of imagination named Jerry, who smelled so violently that he was kept in the little anteroom.

This was a great imposition on our telegraph operator, whose wire was there and it may have shortened his life. His telegraph machine, incidentally, was a museum piece unlike any that I have ever seen in America, with a big black knob, like a darning egg, for a grip.

In sending he would grab this ball and bang it up and down and his sounder clattered like a riveter's hammer. Even to the lay ear the accent was coarse and loud. Jerry had no chair but sat or lay on a pile of newspapers.

★ ★ ★

UPON BEING SUMMONED, Jerry, like most English office boys of the time, would grab his gloves, walking stick and bowler hat and then would stand at attention near Mr. Moore awaiting his instructions and scowling like a primitive Bolshevik, for he hated Louie and the detestation was mutual.

Jerry's stench was honestly come by. His father was a fish-monger in Whitechapel and the family lived in the shop.

Louie Moore gave Jerry an allowance for his bus fare to Whitehall, but his usual transportation was the coach of the Rile Mile or Royal Mail, a big red horse-drawn van. He would wait on the corner at the embankment and then, with his derby down over his ears and deftly managing his gloves and stick he would hop aboard the rear springs, settle himself and great tidings from "our special commissioner" or "our New York correspondent" would be on their way to a palpitant public.

MY OPINION of the English press was not altogether unfavorable and, strangely, the stately papers with their leisurely methods and swollen dignity made a better impression than their "stunt press." The "stunt press" was trying to imitate American journalism, but was imitating only our faults and doing it badly. The big papers were constantly amazing us foreigners with their solemn contemplation of trivialities and I remember a serious discussion by a number of authorities in response to a letter from a school master wanting to know how deep angle worms burrow.

The best writing of the first World War, it seemed to me, was the rushing, rolling prose of Phillip Gibbs, an Englishman at the British front. There were other excellent writers, but Gibbs had the grace of Percy Hammond and a force that rolled into waves of emphasis with the rhythm of a drum.

HOLLYWOOD, March 6—The history of Stars and Stripes, the most famous of all Army newspapers is to be made into a movie by M-G-M. At least Victor Orsatti has sold Metro the idea and now all that is needed is the authorization from the government. Stars and Stripes, which started in the first World War, has made $3,000,000 and it has had on its staff some of the most famous writers and newspapermen in America.

Joan Leslie

For instance the late Alexander Woollcott, Franklin P. Adams, Stephen Early, FDR's secretary; Grantland Rice, sports writer; Harold Ross, editor of New Yorker Magazine, and many others were on the original staff of Stars and Stripes. The current wartime newspaper has Bud Hutton, former Scripps-Howard editor as editorial chief, and many well known newspaper folk.

★ ★ ★

THE HOUSE Joyce Reynolds owns is up for sale, and she will go to Quantico to be near her husband as soon as it is sold. She and her mother are leaving town, and it is doubtful if they will come back. I hear through the grapevine that "Janie," which goes into production between the 10th and 15th, will have Joan Leslie as Janie, with Vincent Sherman directing. Everyone's suggested a new name. Charlie Koerner came up with "Janie's Sister," but I believe the latest at the Warner studio is the idea of still calling it "Janie."

JUST FORGET you ever heard of Jackie Jenkins as "Jackie." From here on in he's officially "Butch Jenkins," the studio reaching this decision after taking a look at the little boy's fan mail—almost all of it addressed to his nickname, "Butch." To say he is pleased by the change is putting it mildly. M-G-M certainly has a batch of fresh material ready to go starring the youngster who is so good in "National Velvet."

I DON'T KNOW of any death in Hollywood in a long time that has so affected film people as the sudden passing of Mark Sandrich. On Friday he had taken Paul Draper and Joan Caulfield to lunch to discuss their picture and to arrange for her to have dancing lessons. He hadn't been ill at all and was very active in many war and charity activities. He was a brilliant young director and one of the best on the Paramount lot. His loss will be felt keenly by all who knew him, respected him, and admired him for his ability.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Lt. Ty Power is on Guam—hoping to run into his old pal, Lt. Hank Fonda, who is there or thereabout; Trudy Berliner, who insulted Hitler and lived to tell the tale, was dialogue director on "Hotel Berlin." She refused to take the Fuehrer's hand and was exiled from Germany; Lt. Charles Maxwell, a brave pilot when he had a B-29 over Tokyo, has asked Peggy Ryan's ma for her daughter's hand—but hasn't had the courage to pop the question to Peggy; Frank Borzage is trying to buy Borden Chase's concerts for his first Republic Picture; that was a bad automobile accident for Andrea King. She went through the windshield and there were stitches taken in her face—but the doctors say there will be no permanent disfigurement; Minna Wallis took me to call on Fred De Cordoba's father. It was his 72d birthday, and such a nice party, with many young people dropping in to congratulate George, as they call him. Mrs. George is delightful and equally popular with Alexis Smith, Bob Hutton, Louise Allbritton and all the young people.

The Brighter Side By Damon Runyon

NEW YORK, March 6—If I owned a night club, especially one that had been going a long time, I would say to Mr. Jimmy Byrnes like this:

"Mr. Byrnes, with reference to your request that I close my little deadfall at 12 o'clock, I do not want to seem impolite and give you a short answer because I hear you are a nice fellow and I know you are a great American, but how would you like to go jump in the lagoon in Central Park?"

Yes, and I would say to Mr. Byrnes as follows:

"Mr. Byrnes, I hate to say it but I think your request smacks of the capricious. You make it in the name of the war effort. If cutting off my two legs would help us win the war, they would be amputated today, but I challenge you to point out a contribution toward that effort, in manpower, conservation of light and fuel or anything else that will come out of the closing sufficient to justify throwing my employes and thousands of the employes of others out of work."

★ ★ ★

OF COURSE, I would have to pause after that to catch my breath, then I would continue saying to Mr. Byrnes:

"Mr. Byrnes, some of my hired hands are veterans of World War I and many have lost sons and other relatives in this war. They have all fulfilled their obligations as American citizens toward the draft and in buying bonds and paying taxes and in every other way and so have I.

"My operation (I am still saying to Mr. Jimmy Byrnes) does not involve railroad transportation like horse racing and the amount of fuel and other war essentials that will be conserved by closing my place and all the similar scatters in the United States will have almost no effect on the war effort but will cost the Treasury millions in taxes and destroy the livelihood of thousands of men who would scarcely be accepted in war plants, who would be terrible as farmers and who know no other line of work besides what they're doing."

(Phew! Windy guy, that Runyon.)

BUT THE GREAT big thing I would say to Mr. Jimmy Byrnes would be the following, to wit:

"Mr. Byrnes, sir, I understand you are a corn-swigging, vodka-tossing kind of guy and I know the gab that the Prohibs had something to do with your request is strictly the also. And as a matter of fact I would feel better about it if it was under that sort of political duress and not the schism that I suspect and which I feel makes it something I must resist.

"Mr. Byrnes, there is in existence a law that tells me how and when I shall operate my gaff and I have always tried to live up to the letter and the spirit of that law, and when officials disregard the law at their own sweet pleasure and when no emergency exists, and when they do not deign to even consult with me in advance and learn something of my problems, I think it is a dangerous symptom. I shall continue as before, Mr. Byrnes, and I would just like to see you do me something."

★ ★ ★

But at this point, I commenced to review what I would say to Mr. Jimmy Byrnes as above, and I said to myself, see here, Runyon, you do not own a night club so why do you say those things to Mr. Byrnes? Why are you speaking out in meeting for an enterprise that never does anything for you except drop a grunt, or tab, on you the size of the national debt whenever you stick your beezer inside one of those traps?

I said to myself, Runyon, why do you not mind your own business instead of making faces at Mr. Byrnes? I said to myself is it because you have a soft spot in your heart for those joints where you left so much of your youth, and feel that those who have spoken for them so far have been a trifle inept, or is that you are fearful that Mr. Jimmy Byrnes and his fellows in Washington may get to thinking that they can "request" any business out of existence.

Like for instance newspapers?

I said to myself, Runyon, is that what is on your mind?

And I answered myself, well, it could be.

MOST AMUSING of the happenings connected with Dick Powell's meeting with the press at the French Room of the Ritz-Carlton was the by-play between Marjorie Adams, Mr. Powell and the so-called "unseen audience" which was listening when part of the proceedings was broadcast . . . "IT SCARED the pants off me," the blunt Miss Adams exclaimed, with typical Adams frankness . . . Came a lull in explosive utterances (while the assembled company mused whether the Adams opinion had been "cut" at the studio controls) . . . Mr. Powell then stepped up to be interviewed . . . Otherwise, Dick says he's quitting the business . . . AFTER TALKING to a group of young girls (15 to 20 years old) and their mothers . . . we're more than ever convinced that today's lovely girls beg for the chance to be tomorrow's lovelier women. No mother can now tell me that her daughter is interested in beauty ONLY as a relative term. Loveliness is a living, breathing thing to these youngsters . . . who early in life sense the utter importance of looking tops at all times . . . and preparing for the tomorrow of lovelier faces and more charming personalities.

From the hailstorm of questions with which we were bombarded . . . we know now . . . as we always contended . . . that they're 100 per cent for looking better than nature intended . . . for improving upon the pattern of their destiny . . . that they are both fashion-conscious and charm-wise.

Which Mamma too often does not understand . . . or countenance. And, so daughter subscribes too often to the trial and error method . . . sabotaging her beauty beginnings into horrifying results.

Daughter washes her face and Mamma thinks that sufficient. But is it? We're especially fond of a scrub-team duet . . . which both mother and daughter can use with mutual benefits . . . that peps up the complexion like a churn churns up butter. It whips the facial tissues into newborn radiance because it acts both as soap and softening cream . . . soothing and satisfying.

It is a team because this jar of clean, white facial soap cream comes with a workmanlike flat sponge . . . and together they make for healthy facial scrubbing that makes for firm texture and an alive tone to facial muscle. Daughter will thank you for using this preparation. And, remember, too, that teen-age boy . . . and yourself in this legacy of good looks.

I will be glad to give you the name of this facial soap cream if you phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

LOVELY TO LOOK AT with her enviable dynanimity of youth so radiantly expressed in her nice face . . . Paramount Star Diana Lynn is as pretty as any girl her age could be . . . and wants to be. New Chic to Bolero Suit

By BETTINA BEDWELL

MANY a lass is going to pick a bolero for her Easter suit jacket, because bolero suits are one of the leading styles this spring. And where your figure is the kind to look good in a suit with such a short jacket, you couldn't do better.

However, I notice, that some of the best designers are giving bolero suits a dash of the romantic this season, so when you pick one you might like to have this thrown in. There are bolero suits with an air of the romantic African Zouave to them, and there are suits like the one sketched, with an air of a dandy in the early days of the nineteenth century.

This suit comes from Jo Copeland, who makes it of navy wool and adds a white, utterly charming blouse with a big plaid surah bow tie, inspired by what Frederick Chopin wore. The buttons set on the jacket, and its revers also suggest this musical gallant.

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Monday — Today I am in New York city to attend one or two meetings.

This is the beginning of the week in which the 4-H clubs are being honored, and I should like to add my own word of congratulation to the young people in rural areas. The President has written them a letter, but I think everyone should realize the extent of the contribution made by rural boys and girls in the production of food actually used on the farm and in the home community.

In addition, they have in many cases furnished much of the work which full-time farmhands accomplished in the past.

I am very happy to hear from the Crippled Children's Commission in the State of New Jersey that since the commission was formed, in 1926, all cases of crippled or deformed children must be reported by the doctor. As a result, they now have a complete register, not only of children, but also of crippled men and women, and they provide professional treatment and vocational training where needed.

New Jersey has preschool age treatment, clinics and out-treatment.

I HAVE JUST HEARD AGAIN from Raymond Baird of River Falls, Wis., who is 26 years old and confined to a wheelchair. He wrote me last year about their Easter sale of seals which supports Camp Wawbeek at Wisconsin Dells. For six years Mr. Baird has sat in his chair; but he is the publicity director for this crippled children's camp, a sports writer, and also has a column which is published in several Midwestern weekly papers.

BBECAUSE of a sudden change in the bridegroom's orders the wedding of Junior Leaguer Dorothy Burr Garritt and Lt. Harry L. Gayer, Army Air Corps, takes place at 3 this afternoon instead of Friday as originally planned. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall Garritt of West Newton, the bride is being given in marriage by her father at the ceremony performed in the Second Church of Newton by Rev. Regis and Emmanuel Join Oratory Test

Star orators of public and parochial schools and colleges throughout Greater Boston launched preliminary contests within their respective schools today in order to select representatives who will compete in Faneuil Hall April 10 in the James Monroe and Monroe Doctrine Oratorical Contest, sponsored by the Hearst Newspapers coast to coast, and locally by the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser.

Already eight colleges, 45 Boston public and parochial high schools have signified their intentions of competing for prizes which total $25,000 in the nation-wide contest.

State Com. Thomas F. Mackey of the American Legion gave enthusiastic endorsement to the contest in a statement issued at his headquarters in the State House.

"Through means such as the annual Hearst oratorical contest, the Hearst newspapers are performing a significant public service to help America to understand its history and its traditions," Com. Mackey said.

"Such understanding strengthens America and her institutions. Through such contests, our young people will learn to know better the real foundation upon which this great nation rests. We of the American Legion are always interested in such patriotic movements."

Regis College in Weston and Emmanuel College in the Fenway were added today to a long list of universities in which students are competing in the local elimination tests in the contest, which this year is dedicated to James Monroe, fifth President of the United States.

Throughout the Boston public schools, headmasters have been authorized by Supt. Arthur J Gould of the school committee to conduct their intramural contests. Results of these local contests—the winners—are to be forwarded to the Oratorical Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

In Faneuil Hall, on April 10, students in both high school and college groups will compete for the eastern zone contests to be held in New York. The winners in each zone will be eligible for the national contest.

In the national contests, a total of $25,000 in war bonds will be awarded in the 13 competing cities. Local prizes in Boston, equally divided between the college and high school groups, will be: First, $250; second, $100; third, $75; fourth, $50; fifth, $25.

National prizes, also in war bonds include $100 to all runners-up in the national finals; $50 to all qualifying for the eastern zone finals, in which the local winners of Boston, New York, Albany and Baltimore will compete; $50 to all students who qualify in their local zone finals.

Hollander Must Pay $14 Weekly

Cyril M. Hollander, Tremont st. liquor dealer, was ordered to pay his estranged wife, Patricia, separate support of $24 weekly for the next five weeks and $14 a week thereafter in a decision handed down today by Suffolk Probate Judge Robert G. Wilson.

Mrs. Hollander, who claimed her husband was a lavish spender, sought $50 a week.

Bruins at Full Strength For Leaf Battle Tonight

By BILL GRIMES

STILL SUFFERING from shock, resulting from Sunday night's debacle in Detroit, the Bruins returned home this morning to meet the Toronto Maple Leafs tonight at the Boston Garden.

The Bruins haven't been doing well of late. All they have to show for their last four games is one tie. But, they've been lucky in one respect. They haven't been ousted from fourth place.

They could have lost possession of their playoff berth while they were laying off last week. But, the Blackhawks proved to be friends in need by beating Rangers. Then, while they were taking that 10 to 4 shellacking from the Red Wings Sunday, the Maple Leafs threw a block on the New Yorkers.

★ ★ ★

THE ROSSMEN will be at war strength tonight. They came through the Detroit game without any injuries. And, moreover, playing-coach "Dit" Clapper, who didn't play against the Red Wings, will be back in the lineup.

As we have stated many, many times, the Bruins fall apart at the seams whenever Clapper or Jack Shewchuck is out of action.

For a couple of weeks, the Bruins had their backs against the wall. But they haven't been able to do anything to ease the pressure. They must remedy the situation this week—or else.

And they'll do well to forget the two games "in hand" over Rangers, and particularly Chicago. The Red Wings and Canadiens will wipe them off the books.

★ ★ ★

ALTHOUGH they have piled up a two-game edge over Toronto in eight contests, the Bruins really have their work cut out for them tonight.

The Maple Leafs were in a bad slump for a month. After beating the Bruins 5 to 1 here early in February, the Leafs didn't win a game until last Saturday night when they knocked off teh Canadiens to take the series, 11 points to 9, which is almost incredible in view of the fact that they have won 12 fewer games than the Frenchmen.

The Bruins will leave for Montreal tomorrow night to play Canadiens Thursday and on Saturday they'll be in Toronto, from where they'll race home to take on the Blackhawks Sunday at the Garden.

Garden Lineup

BOSTON—Jennings, rw, Cowley, c; Cain, lw; Clapper, rd; Henderson, ld; Bibeault, g.

TORONTO—Schriner, lw; Bodnar, c; Carr, rw; Stanowski, ld; Hamilton, rd; McCool, g.

Boston Spares — Crawford, Egan, Smith, McGill, Cupolo, Marie, Rozzini, Gaudreault.

Toronto Spares—Pratt, Morris, Metz, Kennedy, Davidson, Hill, Jackson, O'Neill.

Game starts at 8:30.

Pics Feature In Dual Role

With two victories already in their locker, the Boston Olympics will take temporary time out from their U. S. Amateur Hockey Ass'n play-offs this week to play the final game of the regular Eastern Hockey League campaign.

This game will be staged against the Falcons in Philadelphia tomorrow night, where the Pics will be trying to keep their keen edge for the rest of their play-off battles.

Later this week the Olympics face a three-game series with New York Rovers, the first two of which will be played here at Boston Arena on Friday and Saturday nights, and the third in New York on Sunday.

In all, the Pics have just 10 play-off games left to play, five of which are scheduled for home ice. Boston's final home games are as follows: March 9 and 10, New York Rovers at the Arena; March 16, Philadelphia Falcons at the Arena; March 18, afternoon, Washington Lions at the Garden; and March 24, Baltimore Blades at the Garden.

UCLA Gridders Lead In Rule Infractions

LOS ANGELES, March 6 (AP)—Although only four Pacific Coast Conference schools competed in football in 1944, the referee had a busy season. They flagged down 301 violations of the rules.

The statistical breakdown, as compiled by the office of Victor O. Schmidt, acting conference commissioner, shows UCLA led the league in infractions, with 95 in 10 games. Southern California's champion Trojans had 82 called against them in 10 games.

Allan Wilson May Head Suffolk in New Setup

By JACK CONWAY

Allan Wilson of Newton will take over the post of general manager of Suffolk Downs if the ban on racing is lifted this year by Jimmy Byrnes, provided Edward O. Proctor and Edward F. Goode, receivers of the Aldred Investment Trust, are still in control of the East Boston track.

This was indicated when Wilson was named a member of the new 15-man board of directors of Suffolk Downs.

Wilson had a stake of $100,000 in Suffolk Downs when it was organized and acted as general manager of the track. He later disposed of his stock to the late James Connors who for a time was president of Suffolk Downs.

Wilson has good standing with horsemen and he knows all of the answers in the complicated task of operating a $2,500,000 race track. He has the good will of Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., member of the Racing Commission, who was the first president of Suffolk Downs.

As Proctor and Goode took over control of the track with the 14,991 shares of stock held by Aldred Investment Trust, Charles F. Adams, director of racing, and V. C. Bruce Wetmore, comptroller, resigned on the grounds of health. Each offered to render any assistance asked of them when racing is resumed.

★ ★ ★

Adams and Wetmore were with Suffolk Downs since 1935 and they sold their holdings in the track to the Aldred Investment Trust.

President Gordon B. Hanlon, on the advice of Judge Hugh D. McLellan, refused to resign. He also remains as a director as do John L. Arnold, treasurer, Malcolm F. Bowen, Ezra D. Hart, Robert P. Loring and W. Edward Bigbee.

The new directors, who will have control, will be Edward O. Proctor, Edward F. Goode, Mrs. Frances Tomasello, Allan J. Wilson, Axel B. Garvem, E. Joseph McCarthy, Joseph J. Snyder, James T. Gormley and Alexander Smith. The directors all come from Greater Boston other than Smith who lives in Philadelphia. There has always been considerable Philadelphia money in Suffolk Downs.

Gordon B. Hanlon called the meeting of the stockholders to order. He immediately stepped down as presiding officer, declaring that he did not believe the meeting was legally called or legally held. Frederick Hoitt, a stockholder, was named temporary presiding officer.

There were 21,893 shares voted out of a total of 29,819 shares outstanding. The receivers of Aldred Investment Trust voted 14,991 shares.

★ ★ ★

The receivers of Aldred Investment Trust announced recently they were prepared to sell their holdings in the track. President Hanlon and his associates later appealed the finding of Judge Sweeney in favor of the SEC who asked that receivers be appointed for Aldred Investment Trust.

ALLAN WILSON
On road back to Downs post

In view of the appeal, the receivers would not attempt to sell the stock in the track without the approval of Judge Sweeney.

There are half a dozen groups which have shown interest in acquiring control of Suffolk Downs, but none of them have made any definite offer to the receivers.

The ban on racing in the United States and the almost two score racing bills that have been introduced into the Massachusetts legislature have cooled off many persons who have had thoughts of investing money in the East Boston track.

Aldred Investment Trust paid $80 a share to gain control of Suffolk Downs. It is unlikely that any offer of less than $80 a share would be considered seriously in view of the strong cash position of the track. Suffolk Downs has operated at a profit since control was taken over by Aldred Investment Trust which was also the case in its earlier years. Last year numerous new mutuel marks were established as racing had its greatest boom.

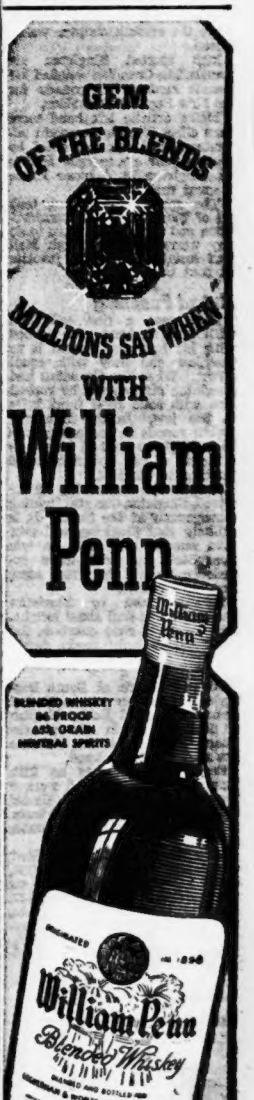
Suffolk Downs, like other race tracks, will be prepared to open as soon as the racing ban is eased. It is felt that the government would permit racing at least three days a week if Germany were to surrender. There may be some restrictions kept on racing until Japan is defeated.

The Battle of the Rhine will probably determine the future of racing in 1945.

(Other racing story on Page 22.)

Jones Retains 'That Old Touch'

ATLANTA, March 6 (AP)—Bobby Jones doesn't play in the tournaments any more, but that doesn't keep the one-time "Grand Slam" winner from shooting tournament-brand golf. The other day he toured the Capital City course here in a blistering 65.



Howe Equals Stewart's Point-Scoring Record

MONTREAL, March 6 (AP)—The weekly National Hockey League scoring statistics had a neat "50" in the points column for Syd Howe of Detroit today, which means that the veteran forward has equalled the 514-point total amassed by Nels Stewart in 15 seasons of play.

Howe moved into the record-equalling position during the week-end.

Stewart had 232 goals and 191 assists when he left the N. H. L. in 1940. Howe is still well behind in goals, but ahead in assists, with his total standing at 232 goals and 282 assists.

After 15 years of play, Howe is still up among the present N. H. L. leaders. His 50 points on 16 goals and 34 assists puts him in fifth spot in the standings behind Montreal's Big Three—Maurice Richard, Elmer Lach and Toe Blake—and Bill Cowley of Boston.

Lach is leading the parade with 70 points and needs one more assist to equal the record 49 compiled by Clint Smith of Chicago last season. Richard is in second spot with 68 points, including his record 46 goals, and Cowley is a point ahead of Blake with a total of 60.

Cowley, incidentally, now has 313 assists in N. H. L. play, the first man in league history to crack the 300-mark in assists. Frank Boucher, with 261, was the only other player to come even close.

Pat Egan of Boston still holds the penalty leadership with 66 minutes in majors and minors, 11 minutes more than New York's Bob Dill. The Canadiens are the most-penalized team with 341 minutes as well as a match and six misconducts.

Mell Edges Singleton

By JACK CONWAY

Gus Mell of Montreal won the battle of the teen-age lightweights when he decisively outpointed Benny Singleton of Waterbury, Ct., New England champion, in a spirited 10-round bout before 4393 fans at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Arena.

The gross gate was $8716 and the net $6282, which set a new high for recent professional shows at the St. Botolph st. fistic palace.

While Mell won eight of the 10 rounds to gain the unanimous votes of Referee Johnny Martin and Judges Joe Blumsack and Jim Shaughnessy, he was obliged to fight at top speed at all times. Singleton refused to admit he had met his master and kept trying down to the final gong.

Our score card gave Mell all but the sixth and seventh rounds. Singleton took the sixth session, while the seventh chapter was a tossup.

Mell spotted Singleton six pounds. The Canadian weighed 131 pounds against 138 pounds for the New England titleholder.

Mell's artistic left hand more than offset Singleton's weight advantage. Mell was also aided by his one year age margin. Mell is 19, Singleton 18. A boxer learns a great deal in a year.

The speculative element took all of these things into consideration and they did not have to do any worrying even though Mell was installed a 4 to 1 favorite at post time.

★ ★ ★

Art of Punching

Mell gave a fine exhibition with his left hand. He jabbed with his left, and hooked it to the jaw and body with equal effect. When the Canadian had Singleton off balance, he rocked him with solid right hand belts to the jaw. In the fifth and eighth rounds in particular, Mell had Singleton in bad shape as a result of left and right hand punches to the jaw.

Despite the hammering he received, Singleton was still fighting courageously at the finish. It is unlikely that Singleton will ever have enough ring class to win from Mell, but with more experience he will win from some first class boxers.

Neither Mell or Singleton known a great deal about infighting. When at close quarters, the rival boxers only made feeble attempts to boxing.

★ ★ ★

Tommy Moore of South Boston added another win to his list when he stopped Bobby English of Fall River in six rounds. Moore is a flashy boxer, while he hits well with each hand.

English went on as an 11th hour substitute. He had worked in a defense plant all day. He did not have any opportunity to train, but managed to make a creditable showing.

Billy Napper, 148, West End, outpointed Johnny Marra, 151, South Boston, in a furious six round slugfest. Billy Murray, 127, Roxbury, stopped Benny Revere, 128½, Worcester, in the first round and Mickey Paul, 140½, Boston, outpointed Pedro Crivello, 135, Cambridge.

Ohrenberger Sure English High Has It

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Coach Bill Ohrenberger of Boston English High School will be parading the hurdlers and the distance-men of his 13th Blue and Blue track team into the 101st Infantry Armory in the South End tomorrow afternoon for their qualifying tests for the annual Reggie meet, the wind-up of the indoor boards schedule.

And in spite of the jinx figure he's just as confident as a fighting rooster that his club will come through on top again for their 12th triumph in his 13-year reign as master mentor in the Boston school ranks.

It's possible that Coach Ohrenberger should spend a few anxious moments figuring on how he's going to beat out Boston Latin's outfit, which edged the Blue in the State Meet, or about East Boston's team which has come in leaps and bounds under Coach Bill McCarthy's tutelage. But he just won't. He's sure that his well-balanced squad, topped by Capt. Dave Krivitsky, a sure fire qualifier in the 600, will come through once again.

Or maybe he should worry some about Boston Technical's 25 points going into these events against English's 20 1-3, or Roslindale's 12, or Hyde Park's 12 1-3; or Trade's 11½; or Latin's 6; or South Boston's 5; or Commerce's 3; or Roxbury Memorial's, Dorchester's or Jamaica Plain's 1½.

In the hurdles, for example, he's got the classy Lawrence Murphy and Jim Joyce.

English will probably rely on Hugh Bushmiller in the 300 but in the 440-yard run, the South End school will be well off again. In Class C, Henry Lesser should gain a place against the threats of Dick Curran, Latin; George Trahan, East Boston, and Joe Regan, Roslindale, while in AB, English should have a couple of spots with Herschel Sternlieb and Jim Pappas meeting their top opposition from Art Chartier, Technical; Joe Manning, Roslindale, and Dick Palmieri, East Boston.

In the 600, English should have Krivitsky out in front all alone with Paul Ballantine of Roslindale in hot pursuit while the 1000 will have Gene Teevens of East Boston, stepping into this event for this third time, giving Frank Finnegan of Latin all that he can handle. English's hopes in this will rest in Al Fauvre and Bill Cornell.

Thursday afternoon, qualifying tests in the Reggies will be continued . . . dashes, 176 and 220 yard runs will take over the Armory floor . . . and the basketball teams will be closing their campaigns the same afternoon . . . four games will usher the sport out.

In the Eastern Mass. basketball championships (Tech Tourney) opening tomorrow night at the Garden with Class B, Director Henry McCarthy has named George Hoyt as chief of referees . . . working the four nights play will be Art Gore, Louis Hack, Dick Roberts, Tony Gentile, Harry Greenberg, Tom Murphy and Walter Day . . . all trial games will be dovetailed.

N. E. Amateur Tilt at Arena

A real fighting program is on the program for Monday night, March 19, at the Boston Arena, according to Chairman "Tam" Sheehan, when the annual New England A. A. A. U. boxing championships are held. Already the lists in the eight classes at championship weights are filling rapidly. Both civilian and service entries will go to make up this year's list.

In addition to the regular New England championship medals which are awarded the winner and runner-up in each division, a special gold and silver bracelet will be given to the first and second place men in all weights.

Then there will be the "George V. Brown Memorial Trophy" which will be awarded to the outstanding boxer of the night, who will be selected by the newsmen covering the tournament at ringside.

To date the largest group of entries received from any one organization is that of the U. S. Naval Air Station at Quonset Point, R. I. The R. I. entry will have two featherweights, one lightweight, five welterweights, five middleweights, one light heavy and one heavy.

The tournament is open to all registered A. A. U. boxers in the New England Ass'n.

Turf Revival Seen This Year

A resumption of racing in 1945 was seen today in the New York report of Maj. Thomas McCreery, head of the Horsemen's Protective and Benevolent Ass'n.

Maj. McCreery had just returned from a visit to Washington where he talked with Maj. Gen. Lucius Clay, aide of War Mobilizer Byrnes, whose "request" late last year caused a suspension of racing early in January. Maj. McCreery said:

"It has now been two months since racing has been closed. The authorities in Washington are pleased with the way racing has uncomplainingly co-operated with the request to discontinue, and the request to refrain from employing men under 46 years of age.

"Washington also now realizes that we have a large investment in horses in training and breeding stock, and that the value of this investment will deteriorate unless we can have some racing in the year of 1945 and every year.

"Washington has decided that we will be permitted to race at the earliest possible moment consistent with the war effort, in order to protect this investment.

"Considering the fact that an emergency will still exist when the war in Europe is ended, or when the war positions are decidedly better in Europe, it is my conclusion, as a result of the interview, we will have some sort of limited racing for the period of this emergency.

"Also, Maj. Gen. Lucius Clay, who is deputy commissioner, informed me that when Justice Byrnes considers war conditions permit he will call upon a representative each of the horsemen, of the breeders and of the racing associations for a consultation of a plan for this limited racing."

Three other players who were in the North and South Carolina All-Star game here last summer have been signed—Jack Hollis of Columbia, S. C., and Jimmy Eskridge of Charlotte, infielders, and Pitcher Mason Leeper of Gastonia.

Discharged Vets Nucleus Of Coast League Squads

San Francisco, March 6 (AP)—The eight clubs of the Pacific Coast League have swung into spring training grind with reports from the camps indicating most of the playing will be by medically discharged ex-servicemen, 4-F's, youths under draft age and a few older men.

The San Francisco Seals had 44 players out to show their wares to Manager Lefty O'Doul yesterday—the largest spring turnout in yeare. The Seals are training in their home stadium, giving work workers a chance to try out between shifts.

Twenty of those who are working out are in class 1-C, with medical discharges from the armed forces; 17 in class 4-F; two over 38 and three are 17-year-olds.

The Oakland Oaks, training at Fetters' Springs, had 23 players.

Manager Dolph Camilli, former Dodger first sacker, said he expects arrivals this week to put his squad over the 30 mark. He said he will play the outfield this season.

Sacramento sctarted training at Richardson Springs with only 14 players.

Portland, training at San Jose, started with 17 players, expecting 27 by the end of the week.

Hollywood had 35 players in the initial drills.

Los Angeles' Angels had only about 20 players working out.

Seattle's Rainiers had 28 players in uniform last Saturday.

The San Diego Padres started with only 18 players, but 26 contractsh ave been signed.

Canadian Lass Skate Champ

Hampered by a severe fall at the height of her program, Gretchen Merrill, attractive 19-year-old Boston skater, finished second last night in the North American championships in Madison Square Garden, New York.

The spectacular young blonde was the winner of the National title Saturday night for the third consecutive year in the Skating Club of New York rink.

Severely injured in a head-on collision at the Chicago rink one week ago, Miss Merrill's appearance in either competition was extremely doubtful until only two days before the starting date. The effects of the injuries which hospitalized the ladies' champion were clearly shown in her free skating program on both nights.

In the final decision, Barbara Ann Scott, Canadian champion, had the school figure lead and first place with four at the judges in the free skating. Janette Ahrens of St. Paul, third in the figures, held the vote of the remaining two judges. However, Miss Merrill's high second in the figures and close third in the free skating gave her the second position.

Plasma Saves Wounded Marine on Iwo Jima

U. S. medical corpsmen administer blood plasma to a wounded marine on the bloody sands of Iwo Jima during the struggle to wrest that strategic island from the Jap forces. Hundreds of marines were saved by the use of plasma in the first weeks of the bloody campaign which has already cost the lives of 2050 U. S. fighting men. Meanwhile, at home, the Red Cross renews its plea for more donors.
